

GRIM DEATH ENDS BULL WILL CASE

TUBERCULOSIS KILLS PLAINTIFF
SIX HOURS BEFORE TIME SET FOR HEARING.

West Lebanon, Me., July 19.—Six hours before the time set for the hearing in the probate court at Alfred, Me., for the settlement of the famous Bull will contest, Mrs. Olea Bull Vaughn, the contestant of the will of her mother, Mrs. Ole Bull, died here. The death of Mrs. Vaughn was due to tuberculosis and was not unexpected. During the will trial at Alfred she was unable to be present owing to her illness, and her deposition was taken. The will of her mother, Mrs. Ole Bull, the widow of the famous Norwegian violinist, bequeathed the greater part of the property, estimated at half a million dollars, to certain persons in India. The trial lasted nearly two months and the contesting lawyers sought to show that the testatrix had been influenced by her beliefs in certain Hindoo doctrines.

Psychic Orgies.
Astounding are the things that were told about the secret, mystic seances held in the "meditation room" of Mrs. Bull's summer home at Greencroft, Me., and in the "Studio House," as her handsome residence came to be known. The organization with its mystic, its psychic orgies, its eerie faith, was known as the Order of the Raja Yogi, whose chief was Ramon Orlans, of whom Mrs. Bull was declared by a witness to have said that "he was a very plain man and had attained to superconsciousness—the ultimate degree of perfection in the faith—through love." Asked to describe how a student might reach the supreme stage of perfection and earn the title of raja yogi, the following was the reply:

Mysterious Sussama Canal.
"The mysterious sussama canal, passing from the base of the spine to the brain, is dormant in ordinary persons. Only in yogi, or students of raja yogi, does it become active. The kundalini—the element at the base of the spine—awakens. The power begins to ascend to the brain, passes the sussama canal and overcomes the subtleties of nature. If you can make the current pass through the canal to the brain, you have solved the problem of freeing the mind from matter."

Equally astonishing is the fact that this reply was given from the lips of an Italian barber, Nicholo Roberto, who was brought from Italy to testify in this will contest. He said that after some years as a member of Mrs. Bull's household, in which he became an adept in the Hindu practices of the psychic circle, he was battered mentally and physically and he returned to Italy.

Only Real Need for Competence.
The pursuit of wealth is not the aim and end of existence. For whether it be laborer at his bench or the managing director at his desk, the accumulation of a competence is only desirable in that it allows each to enjoy his life in his own way.

Easily Attained.
"I am determined to live in luxurious surroundings and eat and drink the best the land affords," said the frankly selfish man. "That ought to be easily arranged," replied Miss Cayenne. "All you have to do is to get a situation as a butler."

Wise Pig.
A farmer of Delaware has a pig that ought to be in a circus. To obtain apples the pig, starting some distance from a tree, runs, jumps into the air, and catching a limb in its mouth, hangs on and shakes down the fruit.

Lamb With Only Three Legs.
An agricultural curiosity in the shape of a three-legged lamb has just been born at Sand, Surrey, England. The offspring is in perfect health, experiencing no apparent difficulty in getting about.

Prize Horseshoe Collection.
On the walls of the old castle at Oakham, England, is a great array of horseshoes. Every pair of the realm visiting the town of Rutland gives a horseshoe, and many of these shoes have histories.

Stealing a red-hot stove has long figured as "the limit" of predatory daring, if not an impossible feat. But something closely akin to it is reported from Hoboken, N.J., where a man is under arrest charged with having carried off a stove in which a fire was burning. And to make the affair seem colder, the stove was taken from a police station.

Wise Rule for Life.
What one has he ought to use, and whatever he does he should do with all his might.—Cicero.

Tuition in Horseshoeing.
The various German states maintain 70 schools in horseshoeing, with courses of from one to six months.

Approaching the Limit.
"Up-to-date farmer, isn't he?" "Gee, yes! He pastures his milk-wood."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Fortune of Ferris

When Benning, the great wheat king, began to manipulate the golden grain, Ferris withdrew a hundred dollars from the bank and closely followed the lead of the financier. As Benning forced the market upward Ferris became more enthusiastic, investing $50 additional. With the market becoming day by day more bullish Ferris put in another $50. The end of the matter was that that certain mighty gentlemen of the street were placed in close, uncomfortable corners, while Benning cleared his millions and Ferris cleaned up with $50.

The morning after the close of the campaign Ferris was congratulated by his friend, Mr. William Tanner. "I hear you've become a wheat king, Ferris. You'll be buying a seat in the stock exchange next."

Ferris reared back, smiling fatuously. "Merely a matter of shrewd guessing," he confided. "It wasn't a bad clunker, though."

Mr. Tanner slapped him on the back. You'll be giving away libraries presently," he chuckled. "And say, Bob, I'm needing a ten for a few days."

In a show of opulence Ferris produced the ten and proceeded down the street. At the corner he was accosted by his youthful nephew. "Oh, Uncle Bob, I'm so glad you made a million dollars. Now you can buy me a pretty sailboat!"

"Sure," acquiesced Ferris. "Here's $2. Run and get the Nancy D."

Farther on Ferris encountered the charming Lincoln twins. At their approach he straightened his cravat and tilted his hat back from his manly forehead. "Ah, here's Mr. Ferris!" cried Miss Stella. "He has made enough money out of wheat to buy a steam yacht and a bank thrown in. Isn't it wonderfully dear to be so sagacious?"

"Yes, indeed," responded the golden-haired Maggie, "and isn't it dreadfully warm!"

Ferris tilted his hat back to a rakish angle. "Let's go into the drug store and have some refreshments," he invited.

It was an extremely warm day and it required three orders of iced concoctions to assuage the thirst of the Misses Lincoln. After that Ferris purchased expensive pinkish flowers and heart-shaped red-ribboned bon-bon boxes. To celebrate my becoming a real magnate," he chuckled.

As he entered his office a solemn faced, elderly lady accosted him. "I have heard of your wonderful success in wheat operations," she said. "I am soliciting subscriptions for the Pikes Valley United Methodist church. I hope that you will give us a nice donation."

Ferris beamed magnanimously. "I am ever ready to aid a worthy cause. Here is $15."

In the course of the day Ferris purchased six tickets to charity concert, gave two sets of golden beauty pins to the Langley twins just named in his honor, took out a life insurance policy, and purchased an 18-volume set of "Lives of the Presidents" on the installment plan, and indorsed the notes of three friends as surety.

That evening, after he had counted up the net sum of his benefactions and investments, he faced a deficit of $20 as the result of his plunge in wheat. Ferris scratched his head, walked the floor, whistled a plaintive bar and picked up the Evening Planet for another look at the weird progressions of Benning, king of the waving wheat. Next day he withdrew another $200 from the bank and began his second whirl in the money market. Fortune and Benning favored him again and the two hundred became four hundred. But this time Ferris kept his counsel.

Meeting Mr. Tanner he was again congratulated. "Hear you've been playing billiardaire again, Bobby?" "Yes," replied Ferris, "and if you can let me have that ten you borrowed I think I can put you on the ground floor."

Pocketing the ten, he proceeded to meet young Freddie. "Oh, Uncle Bob," cried the lad, "give me money to buy a target gun!"

"Here's a penny," responded Ferris. "Go and buy a license pistol at the drug store."

At the corner he encountered the Lincoln twins. "Ah, here's Mr. Ferris," bubbled Miss Stella, "and what a hot June morning it is."

"Yes," responded Ferris. "I will ask the druggist to give each of you a nice piece of ice."

As he turned into the drug store Miss Stella Lincoln said to Miss Maggie Lincoln: "Stinky old crawfish!" "What a wise old owl am I!" murmured Ferris.

She Remembered.

Mrs. Recentmarrie—Every one says the baby is the perfect image of me. Mr. Recentmarrie—Not every one, dear. I met Mrs. Smith yesterday, and she told me the child reminded her of me.

Mrs. Recentmarrie—Mrs. Smith? Oh yes! I remember now; she called that day when the baby was so irritable and cross.

COUNTY BUDGET COMPLETED.

amount was $46,600.14 in excess of the 1910 levy. The budget commission voted the board $414,886.50.

The Lowellville council levied $20.650 for 1911, which was $14,233.70 in excess of the 1910 budget. The budget commission pared down the levy to $6,416.30. One of the commissioners stated that he regretted that the commission had to cut down Lowellville's levy as the village had voted to install a water system. The law says that if a taxing board contracted a debt before the law was passed such debt may be added to the 1911 levy but the total amount of the budget is not to exceed the levy of 1910.

The commission evidently did not know that a private company is installing a water system in Lowellville. The people of that village voted last March to give the corporation the right to install a domestic water supply.

The Lowellville board of education levied for $11,512.50, an excess of $706.40 over the 1910 levy. The amount granted by the commission is $10,796.10.

The trustees of Austintown township failed to make a levy in 1910 and consequently were barred from submitting a budget this year. The board of education for the same township levied $3,500 for 1911 which was $275.56 less than the 1910 budget. Upon motion the commission granted the township $1,000 for road funds and transferred $275.56 from the school fund to the general township fund.

The village council of East Youngstown levied for $13,250. The board deducted $2,197.18 leaving a balance of $11,052.82.

The Struthers board of education's estimate was $16,474 which was $1,720.22 less than 1910 levy. The village council levied for $15,365 which was $3,199.87 in excess of the 1910 budget. As the village board of education had a credit of $1,172.02 the board voted to give the village $13,375.

levied for $215.83 in excess of 1910. The board of education's levy in the same township was $273.11 less than the 1910 budget.

The trustees of Milton township levied $209.08 less this year than in 1910, while the board of education was $550.32 in excess. The board of education levy was slashed to $2,588.76.

In Springfield township the budget submitted by the trustees for 1911 was for $178.02 less than in 1910, while the board of education's levy was $235.78 in excess. The board of education levy was reduced to $4,742.24.

Green township trustees exceeded 1910 levy by $134.09, while the board of education levy was $683 less. The board gave the township $1,365.91.

Berlin township board of education levied for $3,000 which is an excess of $70.93 over the 1910 budget; while the trustees submitted an estimate of $1,500, an excess of $603.34. Both levies were reduced to the 1910 basis.

Beloit special school district asked for $4,400. The levy was pared down to $2,600.

The Canfield township board of education special district levy was $345.22 in excess. $454.98 was allowed. The board of education levied $4,400 for regular school district and $1,800 for new Canfield joint school district created by the state superintendent of schools. The commission allowed $6,200. Canfield village asked for $1,700 which was $619.36 less than 1910 budget. The board of education levied for $3,186.25 and excess of $430.57. The commission granted $519.36 for tuition and contingent fund.

Beloit village levied $1,046.06, which was $582.37 over 1910's budget. The estimate was reduced to 1910's levy. In Coitville township the trustees levied for $1,172.02 the board voted to give the village $13,375.

levied $21,778.86, a reduction of $16,070 over 1910, while the board of education in the same township filed an estimate of $7,597.79. The board of education levy was cut to $3,444.21.

In Smith township the trustees levied $5,300 and the board of education $2,750. Both boards were within the 1910 limit.

Boardman township trustees asked for $1,200, an excess of $42. The estimate was pared to $1,191.58. The board of education of the same township levied for $10,000, an excess of $7,571.54 over 1910. The commission granted $2,400.48.

In Beaver township the trustees levied for $4,682.15, an excess of $245.15, while the board of education of No. 1 district asked for $2,200, and got $1,548.72. In the No. 2 district the levy of $2,000 was reduced to $1,116.84.

Garfield school district levy was $2,800, which was reduced to $1,552.24. Petersburg school district got $1,315.82.

As a portion of Mineral Ridge lies in Mahoning county the commission decided that Mineral Ridge in no event was to get more than $231.94. Youngstown township trustees levied for $14,000, while the board of education estimate was $18,000. As both budgets were within the limit the amounts were not changed.

In Sebring village the council levied $5,045 and got $6,308.40. The board of education was given $5,662.19.

The board of education of the North Lima special school district levied $5,460 and excess of $495.34 over 1910. The commission granted $2,967.66.

In Jackson township the trustees levied for $1,000. In 1910 they secured $937.67 for road funds. The commission cut off the $200 levied for a cemetery fund and gave the trustees $800.

There is a decrease of $50.19 in the 1911 Poland village levy. The board of education levy for 1911 was $538.46 in excess of the 1910 budget. The board of education was given $2,438.76.

Boardman township trustees asked for $1,200, an excess of $42. The estimate was pared to $1,191.58. The board of education of the same township levied for $10,000, an excess of $7,571.54 over 1910. The commission granted $2,400.48.
